The In the Flow of Work AI Accelerator – unifying People, Data, and Apps

The Future of Project Management is here – are you ready?

Challenges

Today, collaboration is happening in real time with new and evolving tools, but the work and project management that govern it stand apart from the actual work that is taking place. Formal project and work management roles address critical issues, but their toolset provides limited collaboration capabilities. Nontraditional project and work management roles are managing significant work and making decisions without visibility through the organization.

Innovative-e can help customers accomplish more with Microsoft

Unified Collaboration, work, and project management

Reduce the distance between work and project management with a unified platform on Teams.

Reliable, holistic, and trustworthy data

Real-time secure data flows between Teams, Project for the Web, Project Online, and more.

Make smarter business decisions faster and with more confidence

Empower PMs and citizen PMs with increased visibility across projects in real time.
